ABOUT

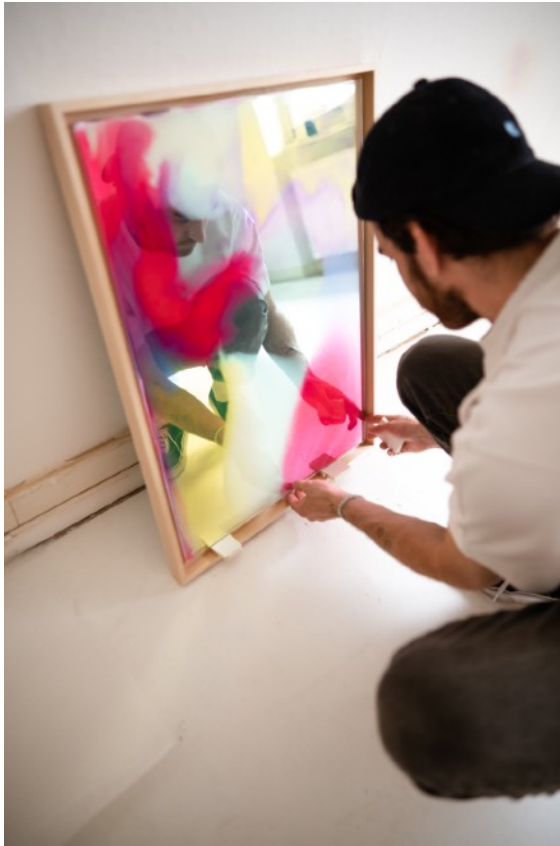

My pieces are inspired by the universe, the nature and math. I think, math and art belongs together since the beginning of everything.

The mirror series is in essence a commentary on the conversation people are having with themselves. Sometimes you can see yourself in the work, other times it is more abstract. The question is: how much of your private life is available on social media for all people? Is it all just beautiful or is it a deeper truth?

Mirrors are used for perfection, to watch yourself and make you pretty. This series faces this dilemma. Is there enough conversation between the perfect look and the open mind of each individual we all pretend to be.
